And to four private Bills.

After which His Majeſty was pleaſed to make the following moſt gracious Speech.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I Am perſwaded, notwithſtanding the unuſual length of this Seſſion, you will not think your Time has been miſemployed in conſulting the neceſſary Means for preſerving the Peace and Quiet of the Kingdom, and bringing to Juſtice ſome of the chief Promoters of that Conſuſion which lately threatned the Nation.

The prudent Meaſures you have taken for our common Security, and your enabling me to defend my Kingdoms againſt any Deſigns or Attempts of our Enemies, are the moſt convincing Teſtimonies of your Fidelity and Affection to me, and of your Concern for the Liberties of my People. Be aſſured, the Confidence you have repoſed in me, ſhall never be made uſe of but for their Safety and Defence.

The Papers which have been laid before you, for your Information, and have ſince been publiſhed for the Satisfaction of the World, evidently ſhew, that the Conſpirators had brought their wicked Arts and Practices to ſuch Perfection, that they confidently carried on their traiterous Projects in Defiance of the Law, from an Aſſurance of their being able to elude it; the Reſpect and Reverence due to the Law had been loſt, and the Tranquility of my People endangered, had not you interpoſed. This made it neceſſary for the Legiſlature to exert itſelf in puniſhing ſuch Offenders, whoſe Guilt is too certain to leave the leaſt Room for Doubt, and whoſe Crimes are too heinous to admit of any Aggravation.

And

And yet it is with Pleaſure I reflect, that the Juſtice of Parliament has been ſo temper'd with Mercy, that even thoſe, who are reſolved to be diſſatisfied, muſt acknowledge the Lenity of your Proceedings, and will be at a Loſs for any Pretence to complain, ſo few Examples having been made, and the Penalties, inflicted by Bill, falling ſo much ſhort of the Puniſhments due for the ſame Crimes by the common Courſe of Law.

The Firmneſs you have ſhewn, muſt convince all the World, how much they were miſtaken, whoſe chief Hopes were founded on the Diſaffection of my People. It gave me great Satisfaction to ſee as general a Concurrence in full Parliament upon this Occaſion, as has been ever known on any former; and it is to be hoped, our Enemies will ceaſe to flatter themſelves with the vain Imagination of being able to ſubvert our Religion and preſent Eſtabliſhment.

Gentlemen of the Houſe of Commons,

I muſt acknowledge, in a particular Manner, the great Readineſs you have ſhewn in raiſing the neceſſary Supplies for the enſuing Year: It is an unexpected Felicity, that you have been able ſo far to diſappoint the Hopes of our Enemies, as to avoid laying any new Burthen upon my People, and that, ſo ſoon after that great Shock and Convulſion in all the publick Funds, and in the midſt of inteſtine Alarms and Diſturbances, the Credit of the Nation ſhould ſo far revive and flouriſh, that not only the Supplies of the Year ſhould be raiſed at a much lower Intereſt than was ever known in the moſt quiet Times, but Part of the National Debt ſhould be reduced from an Intereſt of Five to Three per Cent. and put in a Courſe of being ſoon diſcharged.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

I return you My moſt ſincere Thanks for the Indefatigable Pains you have taken in the Service of the Publick: I earneſtly recommend it to you, in your ſeveral Stations and Countries, to perſevere in your Endeavours for perſerving the Peace of the Kingdom; by Juſtice and Reſolution, to ſubdue the reſtleſs Spirit of Faction and Sedition; and by Prudence and Temper, to reconcile the miſled.

Some Extraordinary Affairs calling Me Abroad this Summer, I doubt not but that the Wiſdom and Vigilance of My good Subjects will prevent Our Enemies from taking any Advantage of My Abſence. To gain the Hearts and Affections of My People, ſhall always be My firſt and principal Care; on their Duty and Loyalty I will entirely Depend: They may as ſurely depend on My Protection in the full Enjoyment of their Religion, Liberty, and Property.

And then the Lord Chancellour by His Majeſty's Command, ſaid,

My Lords and Gentlemen,

It is His Majeſty's Royal Will and Pleaſure, that this Parliament be prorogued to Tueſday the Second Day of July next, to be then here held; and this Parliament is accordingly prorogued to Tueſday the Second Day of July next.

Stockholm, May 8, O. S. On Monday laſt the Secret Committee cauſed ſeveral Perſons of Quality to be arreſted. Theſe State Priſoners were all ſeized much about the ſame Time, and carried to one Houſe, where they remain under a very ſtrict Guard. Of that Number is M. Oſthof Privy Commiſſary of his Majeſty's Court, M. Daleen Chief Director of the States Comptoir, M. Prang Captain of Horſe, M. Schening Secretary to the States Deputation: There are likewiſe ſome who are confined to their own Houſes: But it is not yet known for what Reaſon. The ſame Evening ſeveral Officers were diſpatched into the Country, in order to ſeize ſome Perſons there. Yeſterday 12 Perſons were taken into Cuſtody here. No exact Calculation has yet been made of the Damage ſuſtained by the Fire: Some compute it at near 5000000 Crowns, and that about 3000 Houſes, great and ſmall, have been burnt. Several Perſons have been taken up, on Suſpicion of having ſet Fire to the Windmill where it began; but the Woman of the Mill has depoſed upon Oath before a Magiſtrate, that ſhe left in it a lighted Candle, which Neglect was the Occaſion of all this Misfortune.

Whitehall, May 28.

His Majeſty has been pleaſed to appoint the Right Honourable Robert Walpole, Eſq; Chancellour of the Exchequer, to be one of His Majeſty's Principal Secretaries of State during His Majeſty's Abſence.

The Right Honourable William Pulteney, Eſq; to be Cofferer to His Majeſty's Houſhold.

The Right Honourable Philip Lord Stanhope to be Captain of the Yeomen of the Guard of His Majeſty's Body.

The Honourable Robert Herbert, Eſq; to be one of the Grooms of His Majeſty's Bed Chamber.

The Honourable George Berkeley, Eſq; to be Maſter Keeper and Governour of the Hoſpital or free Chapel of St. Catherine near the Tower.
